

TYPES OF FAULTS

A fault is a fracture in the Earth's crust along which movement has occurred. It is a break in the rock where two blocks of rock move in different directions.

Using the images below, identify & describe the types of faults shown.

List the natural events that could be caused by movement of tectonic plates:

.....

.....